men are subject. It braces the whole system, renews permanently the natural energies, by removing the imparities of the body, not so far stimulating as to produce subsequent relaxation, which is the case of most medicines taken for female weakness and disease. By using

Resolved, That it is inexpedient to pass the pill, entitled a bill, for the admission of California into the Union as a State. A majority of the committee recommended he adoption of the following resolution ! Resolved. That it is proper to organize terterritory of California which lies west of the Sierra Nevada, or California Mountains; and for the territory of New Mexico, lying west of the western boundary of the State of Texas, Mr Mason referred to the importance of the report, and the importance also of having the tion of our flag from the slave trade, and the report spread before the country as extensively as possible. He therefore moved the print-ng of ten thousand extra copies. Mr Douglass did not know that he should make any objection to the printing of the extra number, but he wished that his own views in opposition to the report should go to the public with it. As he understood the report, the first objection to the bill is that it is unprecedented to admit as a State before there is a previously organized government: 2d. that the proviso in the bill is unconstitutionals because no sovereign State can be divided resented to the nearest male relative of Ma- without the consent of the people thereof; and,

3d, that it leaves the settlement of the guestion of Texan boundary to the Supreme court. The last he considered one of the best features of the bill; because the Supreme Court, was made the special order for Wednesday and not Congress, is the tribunal, under the constitution, for the settlement of that quest on. He desired to have a decision in consonance with the constitution and laws, and

In regard to the proviso, he had been wiling to insert the words " with the consent of the people of the State," though he was not willing to yield the point, that Congress had the amount due to the Cherokees under the not the power to divide the State. He was ready to yield the point of the sovereignty of the State, but the reservation of power to subdivide, was not depriving a State of any portion of her sovereignty.

In regard to the other point, that it was unconstitutional to admit territory as a State, in the first instance, the precedents were against the assumption. It was never contemplated by the framers of the constitution of the Unia ted States, that State constitutions should first be presented to Congress. He cited cases, States had been repeatedly admitted without

When admitted, Kentucky was a part of Virginia, without any organized government, or any constitution entitling her to the char; itary purposes, between San Francisco, on the acter of State Her constitution has never So in regard to the next States admitted, Vermont and Tennessee, neither presented constitutions previous to their admission into the Union. Neither furnished a constitution Ohio was the first State admitted, which ment of eight per cent upon all that may be was required to pr sent in the first instance a dug within that time in California; and also constitution, and she was so required because to report upon the expediency of app'ying the her territory was covered by the ordinance of 1787. She was so required, not that it might be seen whether that constitution conformed to the constitution of the United States, but whether it complied with the requirements of the ordinance of 1787. In regard to the State of Maine, the State of Massachusetts passed a law that "Maine is a State of the Union," and neither did she present a constitution previous to admission, Mr Butier here remarked that no such principle was contended for in the report, as that it was necessary to present a constitution. It was necessary, however, that some sort of government should exist, and that application for admission should be made by the people hemselves. Mr Douglass was glad to hear that such priuciple was not to be contended for, as it removed the only possible obstacle to the admission of California as a State at this session. About the details of the bill he cared nothing. There was a government de facto in California and New Mexico, though not a good one, and there could, therefore, he no constitutional objection to such admission. He considered a State government now far more desirable than a Territorial government, and he trusted they would not be permitted to remain under that de facto government for two years longer, with no other protection than that deived from Colt's Revolvers, &c. &c.

Mr Downs rose to request that the report might be so amended as to have it appear that the first as well as the second resolution em thrown in the affirmative would only make a bodied the opinion of the majority of the com-Mr Douglass inquired whether the report should not also be so modified as to have it appear that it expressed only the opinion of he majority of the committee? He inquired further, whether the Senator from Louisiana tid no, dissent from the report. Mr Downs replied in the affirmative, and further stated that the report had not been presented to the committee until 11 o'clock this morning-then was the first time he had seen it, and as be had no opportunity to present a counter report, he should take the opportunity

In the case of Louisians, a law had passed Congress, immediately after the flag of the United States had been raised, to admit her as a State so soon as her population should a-mount to 60,000. And he saw no reason why the same authority should not be exercised in regard to California and New Mexico.

He did not dissent from all the points in the report. Some of them he concurred in. But he was not in favor of rejecting the bill. He had preferred rather that it should be amended. He proposed, in conclusion, a resolution, as a substitute for those proposed by a majority of the committee, declaring that it is competent and not inexpedient to admit California as s State into the Union, on the same terms as the original States, and (if rightly understood,) for the appointment of a committee to inquire and report in regard to that portion of California lying west of the Sierra Nevada or California

He had agreed at the last session that a state of probation was necessary, but a state of things had since arisen, which would give to California the population necessary for admis-sion, and such a population too as might render imminent the danger of anarchy, and perhaps the formation of a government indepen-dent of the United States. He further referred to forebodings of evil in regard to the perma-nency of the Union, but this portion of his re-

Mr Butler considered the debate entirely out of order; but he wished to state that to no reof California and New Mexico as a State into the Union, made a long and very able report thoreon, concluding with the following resolutions:
